

LEGISLATION IN ALBANY.

THIS ASSEMBLY PUTS IN A GOOD DAY'S WORK ON BILLS.

A Case Popular Newark Saloon Keeper Shoots Himself in the Head.

Louis Dub of 36 Fair street, Newark, shot himself in the head early yesterday morning. He was a German and lived over his saloon. He refused to go to bed yesterday evening, and his wife left him in bed and opened the door. Fifteen minutes afterward his three daughters passed through the bedroom, and he told one of them to tell her mother she would find the money taken in on the previous night in a drawer back of the bar. When breakfast was ready he went to the room, his husband and son had dead at the door, with a pistol in his right eye and a pistol grasped in his right hand.

The bill for the supervision of State buildings by the Capitol Superintendent was passed, Speaker Busted explained that it would save the State $10,000 a year by giving the Legislature accurate information as to the needs of these buildings when appropriations were being considered.

W. G. Byrne of the gas-house district put in a bill to-day to compel the Board of Health to remove its disinfesting station and crematory from the foot of East Seventeenth street to North Brother Island and forbidding the establishment of a disinfesting station or crematory hereafter on Manhattan Island.

The Senate devoted almost all of the day session to a consideration of the Supply bill, and resolved on an evening session to get at it long list of bills on general orders. Several additions were made to the Supply bill; Senator Emerson setting in $10,000 for the improvement of the Chazy River, and Senator Larson an equal sum for a daughter of his in the State University. Senator Hinckley was in an earnest effort to get $10,000 to improve the harbor of Jamestown, L. I.

Senators Jacobs and the committee dealing with the state audit of contractors' accounts recommended the adoption of provisions of the treasury only after their own measures of supply were provided for, and specifically called down Senator Hinckley on this point. He responded that the bill was ready, that work was a sub-committee of two, and was never submitted to the full committee. He called for a general conference to consider the bill.
